St. Michael's College

Every student who has ever graced St. Michael's College has been struck with the vitality and energy that echo through every corner of its structure and that can be found in its scholars.

Students have the opportunity to live at residence, to participate in activities and clubs put together by the various SMC organizations, to drop by the Kelly Library in between classes, to catch a quick snooze at the Brennan Hall Lounge, to form friendships that will last forever, and to enjoy a million and one different things created for a well-balanced life.

We are a distinct college within the vast establishment that is the U of T. We have a school spirit that cannot be compared with any other because we participate zealously and have pride in the extracurricular activities and academics we do in a Christian community. Therefore, what could be a more fitting theme for this yearbook than "Getting into SMC"?

The Sword welcomes you to journey through the following pages, immersed with the peak aspects of 1998 that made SMC life so interesting and to share in the achievements of St. Michael students and this year's graduating class.

So let the wings of The Sword carry you through memories that will live forever and get into SMC . . .

Orientation 1997: Welcome To The Jungle

First year students of 1997-1998 enjoyed a wonderful Frosh Week organized by SMCSU. A lot of hard work and brain storming was placed into this annual event and the result was "Welcome to the Jungle." One of the events scheduled had students placed in individual teams, such as "The Tigers," "The Monkeys," and other exotic organisms of the wild. They then participated in competitions with exceptional and friendly leaders in each group. A lot of fun was generated and numerous prizes were given out.

During Frosh Week there were pubs at Cactus Charlie and Plastique. To top things off, there was also an enchanting boat cruise around Harbour Lake that took place in the late of the night.

Here's what some frosh had to say about their experience:

Frosh week was amazing. I met a lot of wonderful people and I had a great time at Cactus Charlie and Plastique.

Lilana Soto

The leaders were so friendly. They made the atmosphere extremely comfortable for the large number of excited students. This light hearted atmosphere made it easier to meet new people.

Gaya Pathmanathan

Boat cruise, boat cruise, boat cruise! I loved the view I saw that night. Well done SMCSU.

Tamika Wilson

I met a lot of new friends during frosh week. It's important to meet people in September because later on, you get a pile of work on your desk.

St. Michael's Welcomes Back Its Students

In early September, SMCSU arranged some "Welcome Back" activities for the students it represented. They arranged a number of eating, drinking and partying opportunities including a social gathering at Mr. Greek's, and the Time Warp Pub.

Students arrived at the restaurant early, forming long line ups. Soon Mr. Greek was filled with excited students, where they met new people, sampled various finger foods and purchased cheap drinks. As the night wore on, students parted from the gaily decorated restaurant to get a good nights rest from a very enjoyable evening and to regain strength to attend the Time Warp Pub. The pub was a great success, with one student claiming that it was a nostalgic ball enhanced by songs like "The Dancing Queen" blaring from the speakers.

University of Toronto
St. Michael's College
Administration

I hope that this yearbook, for those who take it with them, will be above all else a symbol of cherished memories and fond associations during this year at St. Michael's; of friendships, studies, of worship and games, of the host of small events, some unplanned and unforeseen, that give colour and personality to undergraduate life. These associations build from year to year and this book will remind you of 1997-98. It will be a part of your St. Michael's life to the end of your days, as you remain part of the St. Michael's family. All good wishes and God's blessing be with you now and in the future.

Richard M. Alway

President and Vice-Chancellor

Fr. Rob Madden (C.S.B.)

Director of Alumni Affairs

During your years at St. Michael's and at the University of Toronto there were many "meeting places" where you gathered with classmates, faculty members and other friends to talk, debate, share a meal, to study, to pray, and to engage in various other activities such as journalism, creative writing, governance, singing, dramatics, athletics, or just to "hang out." It is St. Michael's hope that all these activities have enriched and better prepared you to be an influence for good the rest of your lives.

May this issue of The Sword be, through your future years, a "meeting place" for you, a place where you will meet in memory the classmates, faculty and other friends pictured here. May it recall the College to you in years to come, and be an incentive to come back to those "meeting places" to meet old friends again and be nourished once more by the spirit of St. Michael's.

May God bless you in all you do. Best wishes for a bright future.

"Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested." (Francis Bacon, Of Studies, 1625) Yearbooks, by their nature, provide a smorgasbord of treats. I invite you to sit back, sample the various "courses" provided by Yearbook Editor, Renée Suen, and her staff, and relive your years at St. Michael's College. I offer my congratulations to the class of 1998 and I hope that you will return often to your alma mater and feast with your fellow alumni.

Halloween Pub Night

Halloween night rocked St. Michael's College. As the Halloween Pub approached, students began the annual ritual of getting into their Halloween costumes. The scramble and hunt associated with the finding of a perfect costume and then the task of putting it on frantically. Then began the actual process of putting on the make up and face paints.

With clothes strewn all over the floor and the last minute rush to the nearest drug store, the results were spectacular. Students concocted a wide variety of costumes for the Halloween Pub. There were Ritz™ crackers prancing about, cats, punks, cross dressers, and even a piece of bubble gum on the bottom of a smelly gym shoe. A variety of other characters or inanimate objects were also found parading themselves at the pub against a sea of booming dance music. It was, indeed, a terrifying night.

Below: "Come and join the party!" Behind a panel of broken glass, a few SMC students beckon for the crowd to join them in the festivities.

Right: "Me Cavegirl, you lunch!" '29's own Sarah Jane Gorlitz growls as she takes Raggedy Anne (a.k.a. Kate O'Connor) hostage.

Far right: St. Joe's hosts their own Halloween bash before the Pub. Beside the candy munching, the get together was a great place for everyone to admire each other's creativeness while still sober.

Right: Loretto girls show that they too can get into the Halloween mood, taking colour co-ordination to the extreme.

TOP TEN REASONS WHY EXAMS ARE LIKE A BOX OF CHOCOLATES:

1. They both give you zits.
2. They both make you sick if you have too many.
3. They both make you stay up all night if you have too many.
4. It's always a surprise what's in them. You never know what you're gonna get.
5. They're nutty.
6. You always get too many of them around Christmas time.
7. Depending on the kind that you get, it can leave a bitter taste in your mouth.
8. They should not be combined with coke . . . may lead to HYPERACTIVITY!!!
9. If you find yourself dreaming about them too much . . . Get help . . . Professional help . . . Quick!
10. Caution: both may lead to massive weight gain. They should be combined with plenty of exercise and sleep.

The Joys of Residence Life

So you've been admitted to the U of T, you're making your own academic decisions, you're leaving home for the first time, and where do you end up? Residence of course!

For those students living in residence for the first time, or those who have the stamina to return year after year, it is an experience like no other. Where else can you find fellow roommates and floor mates cramming for the same calculus quiz or working on the same psychology essay at 1:30 in the morning? The knowledge that someone else has the same brutal biochemistry test the next day is extremely satisfying to know.

However, the most important part of residence is the weekly "Party of Five", "Friends", and "The X-Files" fan club gatherings in front of the television, the habitual late night pizza and chicken wing binges and the infinite clothes closets available. (Someone can always help you come up with the perfect outfit for any event.)

Although university may become extremely stressful and hectic, we all seem to find time for our ever precious social life. There is never a shortage of social activities, whether they are planned by House Council, such as Initiation Night or the Halloween Party. Someone is always bound to know of a certain pub night or shindig that cannot be missed.

Despite the bonuses of not cooking your meals and housekeeping, the best benefit of living in residence is experiencing your family number swell in size. Although our neighbours are by chance, our friendships are by choice. And for this, the residence experience is much more adventurous and memorable!

Residence Formal: A Night To Remember

On Saturday, November 8th, the 1997 Residence Formal was celebrated at the Sutton Place Hotel on Bay and Wellesley Street. The evening began with the Wine & Cheese at Christie Mansion hosted by St. Joseph's College. Judith McIntyre and Anna-Louise Moorman provided a lovely cello and piano duet background, setting up the mood for the evening. The event proceded with dinner that was served in the elegant Queen Victoria Ballroom at the Sutton Hotel, with a delicious main course and highlighted with a scrumptious cheesecake served for dessert.

Guests of honour included Sr. Ann Delaney, Sr. Conrad Lauber, Sr. Joan Atkinson, Mary Hardie, Laurelle LeVert, Henry Mulhall, Kevin D'Arcy, Fr. Madden, Fr. Reddy, Fr. O'Halloren, and Fr. Arnold.

After dinner, the catchy music and dancing began! Thanks to Josh Anger, the St. Mike's residence students (and a few day hops who attended) had a ball until the wee hours of the morning. Josh combined a myriad of musical styles to produce a melodious evening like no other. He even played "Stairway to Heaven"!

Congratulations to Katie Di Tomaso, Helena Kolozetti and Mark Palma, the key organizers of this event. Their hours and dedication did not go unnoticed. Many thanks to all who attended and the lovely volunteers that made this event possible.

Campus Life: A Day in the Life of a SMC Student

Brriinnnngg! My alarm clock on my desk rings. I look over with squinting eyes to convince myself it's time to wake up. Darn! It's 8 AM. I quickly hit the snooze button and sleep for another ten minutes. Brriiinnng! Is it time to get up already?

I get out of bed and scold myself for not sleeping earlier the night before. Why did I talk on the phone? An hour later I am ready to get to class.

At 10 AM I find myself trudging to the front of the classroom to get a decent seat. The professor lectures and I vigorously take down notes. I wonder how anyone can speak about so much within fifty minutes.

Lunch time rolls around and I stroll down to Brennan Hall where I try to balance three tasks all at once: the consumption of a sandwich; talking to my friends; and attempting to study for a test later in the day. Surprisingly, I accomplish them all. I guess that's the real training for life.

Although I find I spend the majority of my day eating, studying, and sleeping, I still find the time to enjoy the friendly and Christian atmosphere that makes a SMC student's life unique.

Right: Y-e-s-s-s! After a vigorous campaign against former SMCSU VP Dang Lambert for St. Mike's SAC position, friends help Stephanie Stasyna celebrate her victory with chocolate cake!

Above: Zzzzz . . . It's never too late . . . or too early to take a quick nap. This student illustrates this by finding a comfy corner in the midst of all the chaos associated with Orientation week.

Right: Human cushions! Improvisations by university students can be quite surprising as can be seen with these students as they patiently wait for food in the Canada Room.

Left: Another day of classes, another load of books to carry. Tina and Terese demonstrate the art of weight-lifting, text books, that is.

Below: Putting those geometry lectures to use. These two students demonstrate their skills at Billiards in the ever festive Coop.

Left: Friendship — it warms the heart and fills the soul. Brigid Quinlan gives a squeeze before setting off to a hard day's work.

Above: "I'll teach you not to mess with me!" This student exercises those long forgotten lessons from his high school wrestling coach on an innocent victim in the lounge area of Brennan Hall.

Christmas

Christmas! — It's one of the most festive and happiest seasons of the year and the activities held by SMCSU and its residences enhanced it.

Celebrations for Christmas began in the month of November to avoid the December chaos of exams, assignments and essay due dates. Many people in residence had their rooms decorated with tinsel, ornaments, flashing lights and other neon decorations unique to the Christmas season. There was also a Kris Kringle event that was organized in most of the SMC residences. People participating were assigned a Kris Kringle pal and on the scheduled day, they exchanged gifts. St. Joseph's College organized a formal Wine and Cheese for this event and to celebrate the Christmas holiday.

Finally, the SMC Christmas activities ended with a successful pub organized by SMCSU.

Right: "Ah gee . . . Uh, thanks, I think . . . " Gift exchange at the annual McBrady Kris Kringle produced the usual surprise gifts, including a thong for Christopher Bates.

Below: "Cheers everyone!" At the St. Joe's Kris Kringle gift exchange, a little more than just the Christmas "spirit" was spread . . .

Left: Deck the halls — Tree decorating can really get one into the holiday spirit. Decorations can find themselves gracefully placed on the tree or even on the residents themselves.

Winterfest 1998: Party Time

1998 started off with a bang, melting away winter boredom, with the traditional event hosted and organized by St. Mike's, Trinity, and Victoria College. This year the annual Winterfest activities started on January 8th, ending on the 10th. During this year's Winterfest, I had the pleasure of attending the SMC Pub — a perfect way to beat the back-to-school blues after a holiday that was too short. This special event featured live bands including Bird, Roach Motel, and the Ghandharvas performing in Brennan Hall, Room 200. There was also a DJ playing favourite dance hits in the Coop, catering to non-rock fans, or just people who felt like boogying the night away.

While the dance floor was empty, I used the time to listen to Roach Motel. The music was impressive. Their melodic, rhythmic tunes were quite catchy and their sense of humour was quite entertaining. I decided: here is a band with much potential.

After the dance floor began to fill up, I spent most of my evening there. The DJ kept us quite content with fresh new dance hits and I could have sworn that he was a mind reader because he played Spice Girls just before my companion and I were about to make our request amidst favourite classics, like Madonna's "Vogue."

All-in-all, the SMC Pub was great fun and I can only imagine that the various activities organized by the colleges that day enhanced the atmosphere.

Left: "Will that be a Labatt Blue, a Raspberry/Peach Cooler, or some pop?" asks these four friendly SMC girls responsible for providing thirst quenchers during the pub.

Social Action Week: Anything For A Good Cause

During the week of Sunday, January 25 to Friday, January 30, St. Joseph's College celebrated Social Action Week. It was a week filled with numerous activities designed to raise social consciousness and funds hosted by the St. Joseph House Council.

The week began with the announcement of a penny race and a collection of "soaps 'n such." The events involved the competition of the individual floors in collecting the most pennies and toiletries. All were donated to the Women's Drop-In for homeless women, located on Shuter St. In the middle of the week, a special game of "Twister Tournie" was played during the regular Wednesday hot chocolate night. A donation of soap was required to enter. The results? There was a wonderful response from the residents at St. Joe's. Many students participated in the events with much enthusiasm and zest.

The successful week ended off with the Charity Wine and Cheese organised by 3rd Mary Hall. The effort and work put into the event was tremendous, but worthwhile. For a small donation, guests from all over St. Mike's received rose pins crafted by 3rd Mary Hall residents and were treated to an elegant evening with classical music and bountiful wine and cheese. The director of the Women's Drop-In was there to accept the proceeds and describe the newly formed agency.

A heartfelt thank you to those who participated and contributed to the very worthy cause.

Right: Even students need a chance to wind down and sip a glass (or two) of wine with a few good friends. SMCSU recognized this and hosted their own informal Wine and Cheese.

Below: "Yo, is this not the best SMC event yet?" Exclaims Mark Sokolski, as someone sneaks up behind him voices his agreement by holding up fingers of approval.

SMCSU ACTIVITIES 1998

This year SMC has been blessed with many activities sponsored, co-hosted, and/or organized by SMCSU.

SMCSU often held Club Nite events at popular locations, such as Whisky Saigon and Phoenix. Students were able to throw away their every day worries of university life with the beat of the drums and the rhythm of the music.

On the same level, SMCSU's different pubs were exciting, and entertaining, above all fun!

As well, catering to the demands, this year SMC students were offered a place to gather and cheer for their favourite team at the SMCSU hosted Super Bowl party.

One thing is certain about the above mentioned events — they have all been successful.

Above: A night out — this usually means, good times, good friends and good food. All three aspects were incorporated in the gathering at Mr. Greek's.

Left: "We're from the circus. Do you want to make something out of it?" asks Ronnie Bury and Kristi Durette with their stunning and sensuous group.

Right: On glamorous occasions, such as that found at the Moonlight Ballroom, it is not hard to spot groups of students all dressed up and ready to take group photos.

Below: Catherine and Brad both agree that nothing can be more romantic than being under the stars (be they real or ballooned) and in a comfy corner just chatting.

Above: Just act cool, smile and look away, instructs Alex Vernon to the two lovely ladies at his side. Either that, or something amusing just happened on the other side of the room.

Above: It may be a night of romance, but these two students have found a way to make it a night of fun. "If we can't reach the stars, then they'll just have to fall on us."

Above: We've caught you red handed Mike and Ronnie! Now you will have to smile and look fantastic for the camera. Awww, how sweet!

Below: Yeah baby! Groovy moves gals. When the DJ turned up the volume, the floors were flooded with SMC students ready to party the night away.

Seeing Stars in the Moonlight: Double Blue Formal

St. Mike's really does know how to throw a party. This year's Double Blue Formal was once again another smashing success like its predecessors. This event was held on Saturday, March 14 at the Moonlight Ballroom.

A lot of hard work went into the organization and the advertising of this event. Prior to March 14, the campus of St. Michael's College was decorated with adorable silver stars swaying in the wind — indicating a guarantee of a glamorous event for the students of St. Mike's and representing the theme of this year's event, "The Stars."

The night began with a wine and cheese held at Loretto College. There, smashingly dressed SMC students met new faces and conversed. Afterwards, they were bused to the location in coach buses — a brilliant way to prevent drinking and driving. As the students entered the building, amazement washed over them when they encountered the breathtaking setup. There were balloons and stars everywhere. It looked truly magical. To top things off, each table was named after a constellation to emphasize the theme. With contemporary music playing in the background, SMC students enjoyed a delicious meal served by the friendly and well-mannered staff. Dinner for non-vegetarians included pasta, salad, and chicken, while vegetarians replaced the chicken with pockets filled with fresh vegetables. An open bar was available to serve students who wanted to celebrate the night with a bit of good cheer accompanying their meals.

Soon after, dancing became the life of the party. The DJ played a variety of music to satisfy the different tastes of the students. Rock, dance, techno, and even industrial were played. In reflection, Audrey Tong states: "This event was spectacular and I congratulate the St. Michael's community for making this party a successful bash."

Left: Dancing the night away . . . of course Vanessa Scanga's having too good of a time to notice that we've caught her in the act . . . of having a great time!

Below: Quick, someone ring up Cosmo, Vogue and GQ! Not only was the formal a night of fun and excitement, it was also a night to fill the eyes with fashions galore.

Around the Campus Once More

St. Michael's College is an endless resource of knowledge and friends. This phenomena is seen every day in SMC students and the campus itself. As I walk around its buildings, I see students parked on lawns, with outstretched legs taking in the sunny rays with other friends. Laughter bubbles around them and an undeniable warmth surrounds them. It is the yield of friendship. Friendships that may have formed before university and strengthened throughout the year or while discussing tedious lecture material in class or over the phone.

As I enter Brennan Hall, a wave of sights washes over me. To my left there are students studying topics like quantum physics, fine arts, and economics. To my right there are students sleeping to regain some strength from the long night before and in front of me there are SMCSU members working hard at some new event to promote SMC spirit. Just in this room, I can see the vast amounts of knowledge present from the liberal arts education provided by St. Michael's College and experiences and challenges presented to members of the St. Mike's community. What a wonderful atmosphere. Cheers to all SMC individuals and affiliates for making it our unique community.

Above: Thumbs up for this marvelous pub because we're sure having a good time. Jennifer Lee, Jacinta Sawanda, and their friends point out.

In a Glance . . . : Year-in-Review

In a year filled with tragedy and surprises; a year where the world lost both Diana, the Princess of Wales and Mother Teresa; a year where Girl Power and teeny-bop pop dominated the charts; and a year where the Titanic resurfaced and submerged once again, St. Michael's College faced its own chaotic schedule. Life at SMC: Clubs & Organizations

Below: Help! The SMC Student Union has gone insane from all the hard work they put into organizing the various activities and events around the campus.

Clubs are one of the most important aspects of SMC students' lives. It integrates us into academic and extracurricular activities, allowing us to pursue excellence in all aspects of life — making us well rounded.

Beside being an important aspect in résumés and scholarship applications, participation in clubs and other related activities also gives one the opportunity to encounter new experiences, face new challenges, gain knowledge, and meet new friends. There are clubs that cater to the student who loves the arts, to the student who loves to lend a helping hand, such as the efforts of the SMC Drama Club, to SMCSU, to the Out of the Cold Club, and even the Yearbook!

Hence, when one is getting into the world of SMC life, they discover that clubs and other related organizations are the key to experiencing a complete university life-style. Without further ado, let the sword point you in the direction of these aforementioned clubs and organizations.

Above: "You know you're wrong Pascal Montpetit", teases Nancy Bishop, "so don't give me that wide eyed look!"

Above: Alex Vernon with Theresa Smythe of Western's Pro-Life Club at the National Campus life Network Symposium that ran from Jan 30th - Feb 1st.

Above: "Don't mess with me or him," says Natalie Gandilo with an overly friendly smile on her face and her pair of hit man sunglasses, "or you're gonna get it!"

St. Michael's College Student Union

'97-'98 was another successful year for SMCSU. SMCSU is the student government of St. Mike's and it is the students of St. Michael's College's elected representatives. They serve all students of SMC and they strive to address the needs of students and to encourage them to get involved and to participate in all that university has to offer them. They provide 5 cent photocopies and laser printing (cheapest on campus), IBM & MAC computer services, copies of old exams, athletics, charity fund raising, pub nights with live bands, ski days, socials, and so on.

With the help of enthusiastic first year crowd and the higher years undergraduate students, the pubs organized by SMCSU were packed with people and fun! Some highlights of the school year were pub nights, movie nights, comedy night, milk and cookies in the lounge, double-blue formal copery bar, and club nights. They also sponsored Kelly's Korner, Chaplaincy events, and many more.

Throughout the school year, they've encouraged everyone to stop by the office in Brennan Hall to say "hi" and to hang out for a while. However, they forewarned that once you were there it would be hard to tear yourself away!

Middle Left: "We've got it going on," Mike Russek thinks to himself nonchalantly as he looks into his pal's ear while posing with the rest of the SMCSU crew.

The Mike

1997-1998 marked the 51st year of The Mike's humble existence as the newspaper of record at St. Michael's College. Much to the delight of both SMC staff and students alike, it was quickly revealed that this was not to be "just another year" for the gang in room 105.

Right from day one, eyebrows were raised when Editor Brendan Clough posted an ambitious fourteen issued publishing schedule. The skeptics dismissed Clough's notion as strictly a flight of fancy given the newspaper's recent history for extended hiatuses, but with the help of the dedicated staff and masthead, Brendan's fourteen issue dream somehow became a reality.

This year's supporting cast was "star-studded." It included Production Manager Dennis "The Friendly Giant" Favro, News Editor Danaca "No Opinions in My Section" Barnes, Features and Opinions Editor Karen "I Am Always Soooooo Nice to You Guys But Look How You Treat Me" Volpe, Arts and Entertainment Editor Paul "I'll Decide who Gets the Bryan Adams Tickets" Iskander, Photo Editor Laura "You Won't Believe What the Sokolskis Did This Week" Finan, Sports Editor Jane Ann "I Don't Really Think We Need A Sports Section this Week" Clough, Business Manager Gina "I'll Get Renata to Help Me," Advertising Manager Anthony "Believe Me Brendan I'm Just Not a Salesman" Marchie, and Distribution Manager Joanna "Just Because I Go Out With Mark Doesn't Mean I Can't Do the Job" Gaweda.

The Debate Club

Debate Members: Mae-Lyna Beaubrun, Declan Doyle, Linda Forward, Chanzo Greenridge, Kevin Kakonge, Joseph Kim, Jeff Kramer, Dang Lambert, Dave Nagy, Patrick O'Leary (club co-ordinator).

The debate club has always been a popular club in the community of St. Michael's College. Members of the club participate actively and energetically in various debate competitions. Some participate in the parliamentary debates that take place here at the University of Toronto and at other universities across the province, while some display their talents at the informal debates that place at the weekly meetings. This 1997-1998 school year had the pleasure of having the extremely busy debate president Patrick O'Leary share his experience and debating skills with enthusiastic and talented SMC members. These students met new faces, learned from each other, and had tons of fun together. This is what university life should be all about.

The Grammateion

Grammateion Members: Terri Alfano, Danaca Barnes, Shawna Botelho, Catherine Clark, Francesca Di Meglio, Natalie Gandilo, Chanzo Greenidge, Teri-Lynn Janveau, Mike Lee-Poy, Myrtle Millares (Chief Editor), Roy Morra, Justin Rutledge, Sarah Sheehan.

Every spring just when you thought you'd run out of ways to procrastinate, the Gram beckons from every corner of St. Mike's College — Kelly Library, Brennan Hall, Carr Hall, Elmsley Hall, Alumni Building, and residences.

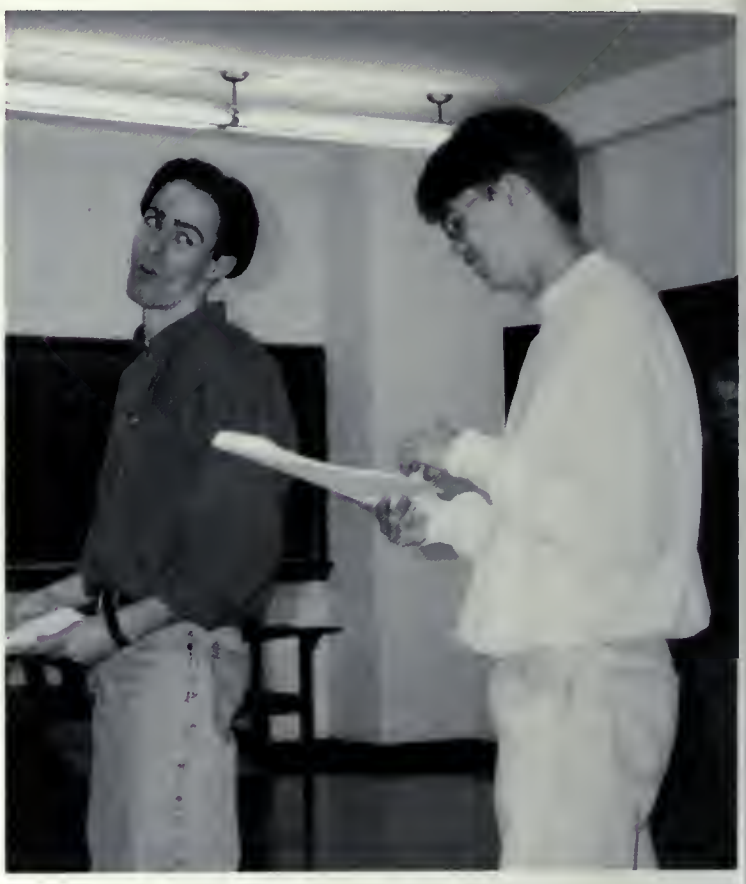
It showcases SMC students' poetry, prose, artwork and photographs, chosen by the editorial board through a democratic process involving stimulating literary and artistic discussion and pizza.

Clubs & Organizations

Right: "Maybe I am, but you are a shameless cheater!," says Pascal Montpetit. "What the heck are you talking about?" asks Jeff Saunders. What we're talking about is the play "Of Gods of Men".

Below: "Someone wants to take our picture guys," Misha Beline and Ian Dafferin shout gleefully to the other drama members of the Fall Production.

Centre Right: "Ooooh baby, baby!" sings this talented young man, while his equally talented guitar accompanist taps his foot and strums his guitar.



SMC Drama Club

On The Theatre Commission Fall 1997 Production:

I got to be a tyrant for a term. Being author, director, and producer all at the same time gave me a pretty good idea of what totalitarianism feels like. Yet, some people believed that putting on a performance of "Of Gods And Men" at St. Mike's was a slightly daring decision. And I was one of them. The main themes of the script stood against one and every value taught at this college: silence, betrayal, vengeance, and hopelessness.

The play revolved around a cheap devil and his favourite henchmen kidnapping nuns, fighting fierce knights, and challenging the divine order of both good and evil. It is another dark play to conceal some old scars. At the time of writing we have not performed yet. All I can say is that I have a wonderful and very talented cast . . . and the best stage manager ever!

Pascal Joel Montpetit

Members: Dave Anchel, Eva Bartha, Misha Beline, Nancy Bishop, Sarah Carney, Oliver Chen, Martin Coyle, Jasmine Crowley, Ian Daffern, Hai Doan, Lindsay Foote, Miriam Gilbert, Patt Hernandez, Vivian Kwok, Marisa Laudidio, Muz Mallo, Pascal Joel Montpetit (Fall Director), Jounghwa No, Mike Rusek, Cameron Ruthven, Tabatha Soltay, Jeff Saunders, Sarah Stewart, Katie Sugatt, Ryan Sutherland, Mariann Szekely, Josephine Yu.

Right: SMC students take a break from their hectic schedules of studies to drop by Brennan Hall and immerse themselves in local hidden talent during Kelly's Korner . . .

Below Right: "Here's one I wrote for tonight . . . " exclaims one performer as she begins to serenade her fellow SMC schoolmates with her guitar and voice.

Kelly's Korner

The harmonious notes from the man strumming his guitar fills the lounge. A young diva sings a jazz song and entrances the audience with her voice.

It was a good year at the Korner. Thousands of people (maybe less) came out to the six shows this year to hear great performances by their mates (that's British for "friends") And with the plethora of talented people in this college, the revelry (if you can have revelry with cookies and juice) would usually run until the wee hours of the morning.

The shows consisted mostly of people with their guitars, belting their hearts out (Paul Iskander, one day you're going to lose your voice), but we also got some "performance art" from More House — Steven and his Christmas Choir Boys, divas from Loretto and St. Joseph's College who could out sing Jewel of Celine Dion with both vocal chords tied behind their back, and many other fabulous and great things. Many thanks to Mark Rainey for making all the electrical stuff work, and to the YYY-M-C-A! For loaning Kelly's Korner the equipment, and to SMCSU for their support, and to everyone who came to the shows. When these people become famous, you can say you were there.

Clubs & Organizations

The Italian Club

Founded in 1946 by Julius A. Molinaro (currently Professor Emeritus, Italian Department, University of Toronto), the club's original mission was to facilitate the integration of Italians into Canadian society.

Over the years the scope of the club's mission has changed to meet the growing challenges of the Italian community in Toronto and the growing emphasis on multiculturalism in Canada. To this end, the club has been dedicated to promoting all aspects of Italian and Italian-Canadian culture, including: cuisine, drama, sport, literature, music, history, art, and above all, the people.

A dynamic bond between its executive, its members, and the larger community, the club has always been dedicated to the principles of diversity and tolerance that have characterized Canadian society, and the principle that our ethnic differences not only make our country unique, but also stronger.

Throughout its existence, the Italian Club has undertaken numerous annual activities and has always maintained a strong concern for charitable issues, and many of its events are undertaken for charity.

Joseph Cosentino

Italian Club Executive: Joseph Cosentino (President), Cathy Paglialunga (Vice President), Dennis Infanti (Treasurer), Maria Pallotta (Secretary), Andrew Casale & Rob Di Felice (Cultural Affairs Reps), Catherine Ferrari (Community Affairs Rep.), Serda Evren (Campus Affairs Rep.), Vanessa Nero (Promotions Rep.).

University of Toronto Celtic Society

The Celtic Society at the University of Toronto is based at St. Michael's College and it is closely connected to the Celtic Studies Program. It is a program based at St. Michael's. They organize and present lectures in conjunction with the program and participate in the events of the Canadian Celtic Arts Association. The association is closely linked to the University of Toronto Celtic Society.

The Society aims to explore, raise awareness of and preserve the Irish, Scottish, Welsh, Bretton, Manx, Cornish, and other Celtic cultures and traditions. They hold concerts, ceildhs, lectures, storytelling events, craft fairs, and other events that raises awareness for the Celtic ways. This year their concert was a tremendous success. The concert featured musicians: Kitty's Kitchen, Gain Ainm, and Rowena Taheny. The wonderful and melodious music represented some of the Celtic culture nicely. They also held a ceilidh and a storytelling night in February and they marched in the St. Patrick's Day Parade on March 15.

This year has seen the quiet reawakening of the Students for Life club at St. Michael's. We have had a busy year of pro-life activities, starting with Life Chain Sunday, on October 5th. St. Mike's and U of T students joined with hundreds of thousands across the continent in a silent demonstration of solidarity with the victims of abortion. In our gathering prayer, we dedicated our Life Chain to the memory of Rory Kennedy, a young pro-lifer who had died on the previous morning. The Life Chain kicked off the International Week of Prayer and Fasting to End Abortion. Students for Life led daily prayer meeting in St. Basil's church. On Oct. 25th the Students for Life sent many volunteers to help chaperone the Ontario Students For Life (OSFL) Conference in Scarborough, that saw close to 400 high schoolers gather from around the province. On November 8th, here at St. Mike's the Millennium Evangelization Committee put on a one day conference billed as "The Culture of Life vs. The Culture of Death" with the sponsorship of SMCSU, the Christianity and Culture Club, and Students for Life, among other groups. Kudos to SMCSU for its continued resistance to pressure to include condoms in frosh kits.

Out of the Cold

Every year homeless people starve, or die in the streets of Toronto. The Out of the Cold Club recognizes this and reaches out to the many homeless citizens of Toronto by holding a hot and hearty lunch every Tuesday between 10 AM and 3 PM. There are 50 volunteers, who efficiently prepare, clean, and visit with the homeless. Finally, the year's work closes with a formal dinner. Thanks to all the volunteers who helped make this year another success.

USMC Liturgical Choir

The University of St. Michael's College Liturgical Choir is a core of students who enjoy making music and sharing it with others. The choir, under the direction of Janet Loo, consists of students from a variety of academic, cultural and geographical backgrounds who are committed to the goals of campus ministry at St. Mikes: to help foster the faith community through the manner of leading people in prayer and to use our musical talents to praise our Creator God.

The primary ministry of the choir is to serve the faithful who gather in St. Michael's Chapel for the 11AM Sunday Student Liturgies. The choir also participates in occasional special services throughout the year such as the Orientation Week Welcome Mass, Parents' Day Mass, the Advent Carol Service, and the Convocation Mass in the spring.

Director of Ministry: Janet Loo. Sopranos: Florence Au, Blanche Barco, Mae-Lyna Beaubrun, Lisa Ann Bilinski, Lina Castlluzzo, Miriam Gilbert, Michelle Henry, Ingrid LeFort, Catherine Readyhough, Theresa Ryu, Carole Thompson. Altos: Caroline Bonner, Jacqueline Dawson, Andrew DiGiovanni, Catriona Girotte, Sarah Magee, Kathy van Driel. Tenors: Gabriel Chan, Martin Chang, Oliver Chen, Mark Hodson. Basses: Steven Chan, Michael Lee-Poy, Bill May, Derek Simunovic. Instrumentalists: Phillip Apong (flute), Steve Biason (guitar), Mel Bowers (guitar), Natalie Gandilo (guitar), Judith McIntyre (cello), Anna-Louise Moorman (piano), Christine Murray (violin), Patrck Zdunich (guitar).

USMC Chaplaincy

Chaplains: Fr. John Reddy, Sr. Joan Atkinson

Right: From October 3rd to 5th, a group of students journeyed to Invermara for a weekend retreat organized by the St. Michael's Chaplains Fr. John Reddy and Sr. Joan Atkinson, and with Anne Walsh (the honoured presider). The retreat ended Sunday morning with an extended mass, allowing a personal reflection on the gospel by the peaceful lake of Invermara. The weekend refreshed the souls of the students, reawakening their appreciation for God's work and interactions with His creation. — Michael Lee-Poy

Collide into SMC: Sports

Below: Loud and proud. SMC athletes share their athletic talent with the college, with 200% effort. The Athletic Banquet held on April 2nd recognized and applauded all participating individuals for all the dedication they put into their particular sport(s).

"Hut, two, three, four." Members of the football team quickly run on to the field. They are pumped in preparation and spirit for their early morning practice. They are ready to achieve all that they dare to thanks to their coach's, team members', and SMC students' support, and as well, St. Michael's College's facilities. They are prepared to break all odds and to reach the unreachable. This is a typical scenario that many of the sports teams on the SMC campus face. The teams practice hard and are at their best for games against other colleges at the University of Toronto. SMC provides facilities and training for a multitude of athletic activities in which both male and female students are encouraged to actively participate in. Students are given the opportunity to meet new people, make new friends, face new challenges and, above all, have fun!

All teams this year have done very well, regardless of the detail of winning. Applause and congratulations are stressed for the admirable effort and hard work that our SMC athletes have put forth in their challenge to represent the college to the best of their ability. The Sword would like to wish the students who participated in SMC sports all the best. Go St. Mikes!!! May the SMC pride never die.

Above: Soccer in the snow?!? This year's kooky weather had made itself a challenge for all outdoor activities, but the Div. 1 Soccer team proves that even mother nature can't hold them back.

Above: Serve's up! Be prepared people. SMC's Women's Volleyball teams are ready to spike the ball in your face and make you eat it too!

Life On Campus: SMC Residence

Below: "We're too sexy for our cat, too sexy for our cat, so sexy it hurts," claim the men at Sullivan House as they prepare themselves for their pose. Each individual had a separate idea of what he wanted to do, and eventually, as a collective, they exclaimed, "yeah, we're too sexy for this picture too."

Residence — the place where new experiences are encountered and new bonds are formed that last a life time. For the students who live at residence, they are forever astounded by the university spirit they feel amidst the often appetizing and nutritional sustenance provided by the chefs in the cafeteria. Amongst other things, the community spirit of dorm life, the sharing of stress, hair pulling sessions, all nighters, text books, CDs, pizza, the flu, and the occasional undercloth-ing, life at residence can also be a fruitful experience full of surprises and wonders.

Yes, residence is the place to grow in maturity and have fun at the same time. The house council formed of men and women of each residence provides many active opportunities for everyone to attend and enjoy.

Certainly, life time friendships can sprout from every corner of St. Michael's College. Yet, there is not a better place for it to take root then at a SMC residence.

Above: "Okay, let's play a game of footsies while everyone else is distracted by the camera," says Kristi Durette with a huge grin on her face. Whoops! Wrong body part!

Above: Since when did Harrison Ford find his way to Loretto College? Surely it would have been in the papers, if it were not for the protection of Loretto girls!

Above: "Let loose. You're only young once" is the motto to living a satisfying life for this year's Third Fontbonne residents.

The residence councils of St. Michael's College consists of St. Joseph's College House Council, Loretto House Council, and the Men's Residence Council. The committee is made up of the men and women who belong to the St. Michael's College community and live at residence. They are elected by SMC residence students.

They attempt to bring together students who may be away from home for the first time, International Students, and just the general student population residing there to participate in various activities. Some activities that the House Councils have completed are Hot Chocolate Nights, Movie Nights that occur once a month, Halloween Parties, Christmas events, the Triple Residence Formal, the Skating Party, Social Action Week, Frosh Initiation and many more. These events take a lot of time, organization, and hard work put in by the three house councils, but in turn, they allow special and long lasting bonds to form between the residents who meet and perhaps decide to be friends. It also enhances the university experience, former graduates of the University of Toronto — St. Michael's College always seem to talk about. Cheers to all the residence councils for making residence another great year for those living on campus.

Men's Residence Council

Getting Out of SMC: Graduates

Below: Here we go! While waiting for the coach to load up for the Double Blue Formal, SMC graduates can be found catching up on the latest gossip, discussing their future plans and aspirations. Worries about upcoming exams are left at the door in preparation for an evening of glamour and fun.

Graduating from university is one of the most important events that can happen in a person's life — it is a boundary that students cross before entering into the challenges of the "real world." During the numerous years of undergraduate studies, students plough through a seemingly endless number of tests, assignments, and essays. They may be blessed with the discovery of their call in life. They may face new challenges that allow them to grow and develop personally. They learn to listen to new ideas with open minds, evaluate critically, and communicate effectively with those around them. They attain the tools that are necessary to deal with future problems and events. Most importantly, they leave SMC with minds blooming with knowledge and an enthusiasm to take the world by storm.

On behalf of The Sword, we wish to congratulate the 1998 graduating class of St. Michael's College and wish them success in the future. May you find new challenges to pick your brain with. May you travel the road less travelled. May you be all that you can. The sky's the limit and you possess wings that never tire.

Above: Hey there! Surprised by the photographer, Janet Loo still manages to share a radiant smile with all those around her.

Above: Friends forever. St. Joe's annual grad dinner is not only a time to share tearful farewells but as well the celebration of what was gained through the university experience . . . friends.

Above: Best buds. SMC's the place to be when one wants to find friendships that last a lifetime.

Congratulations to the SMC class of 9T8. Our time here is marked by wonderful memories, many of which are recorded in the pages of this book. Of course we'll all remember our lectures and labs, but St. Mike's provided its students with a variety of other opportunities to learn and grow. Involvement in student life through SMCSU, Kelly's Korner, pubs, clubs, or intramurals has given us the chance to meet new people and make new friends. Our time here at SMC is over but will never be forgotten. Let's look forward to days free of stress, nicotine, and lack of sleep, and towards a bright future for all. As you look back through these pages remember the good times and carry them with you forever.

A Glance in Time . . .

We entered in first year, full of wonder, excitement and a touch of fear. The future was before us as we stepped into the next phase of our lives. New places to be, new people to meet, new dreams to dream. The stars were in our reach.

With the hustle of classes and the immersion into the stress of fulfilling the expectations of others as well as our own, academic pursuits ruled our world. Priorities changed. Suddenly, marks were a mark of our worth and value. Passing was not good enough . . . doing better than others was more important. The U of T mentality had seeped into our minds and ruled our way of thinking. As the years passed by, graduation was in sight, and the feeling of surviving the whirlwind of life was near. We were ready to move on . . .

However, looking back, we realize the successes, failures, trials and tribulations of the academia in our university career was but a minute part of the many lessons learned at the University of Toronto. The lessons will stary with us, the memories that tough us and the moments that moved us were not the academia, but in the people and community of St. Michael's College.

We learned confidence, compassion and the need for confidants. Friendships were formed to last a lifetime. Dreams were shared, failures overcame and life lived to its fullest. These are the lessons that are the most important in life, and the ones we carry with us after graduation. St. Michael's has provided us with the skills, friendships, confidence and self-respect needed to surpass all of our expectations, fulfill our dreams, and to find true happiness in our lives.

The Sword '98 Editor-in-Chief

1998 has proven itself a worthy challenge to the lives of St. Michael College's students. We have had the opportunity to get into various aspects of university life. Be it academically, athletically, religiously, or by participating in community participation, SMC students have had the opportunity to grow and develop. And through the various challenges, it is the friendships developed and the knowledge that we get out of this crazy period of our lives — labeled as the university experience — that has helped us develop into a maturity that can be matched by no other source.

We leave behind the 1997-1998 school year to embrace the future and sincerely hope that as time passes and as our environment changes, that The Sword will make it possible in facilitating your recollection of your university experience.

Congratulations to all the graduating class of 9T8 — may your futures be bright and fulfilling. To all the students coming back for the upcoming school year — have a great summer. All the very best and may God bless.

Thank you . . .

The Sword Staff would like to profusely thank the following people, without whom, the yearbook would not have been possible. A hearty thank you to SMCSU and St. Michael's College for their financial support and making the dream to produce a book full of wonderful memories a reality.

The Mike for providing us with many pictures . . . when we fell short.

Thanks to Veronica Bury, Rowani Payoe & Stephanie Stasyana for taking their cameras to all those pubs and events.

Angie Liao, for sticking around and helping out with tedious jobs. We are forever indebted.

Endless expressions of gratitude to all article contributers and to anyone else who contributed to the production of this book that we missed mentioning. The Sword would not have been what it is without all your help.

Thanks to Ms. Laurelle LeVert & Mr. Henry Mulhall, all the Dons and House Presidents for their cooperation for the rez section. Finally, a special thank you to Ross Campbell of Herff Jones for being there when chaos reared its ugly head and all seemed lost.

Stay One Move Ahead.
